HYLAN BORN ON A FARM. Mayor-Elect Studied Law While Running Engine.

Judge John F. Hylan of Brooklyn, the took the election from Mayor Mitchel after one of the hottest campaigns ever staged in New York city, was born on a Greene county farm near Hunter, N. Y., on April 20, 1868. The son of a small farmer, his youth was spent on the farm Energy and ambition were not to be wasted for long in rail laying, however. At 22 years of age, two years after the Mecca of ambitious farmer lads had given him his first city job, he had his own engine. And now romance steps in. In the comely shape of Marian O'Hara it had been lurking coyly in the back-ground—or rather on the adjoining farm—almost from the time that young Hy. amost from the time that young Hy-ian first began to dream of railroading, but it wasn't until the throttle was ac-tually in his hand that Hylan mustered the high type of courage that pops the question.

Hylan went back to the farm for his bride and brought her to the city with him, and with his marriage, as happens so frequently, his vision grew. Rall-roading no longer appealed to him. He decided to become a lawyer, and a lawyer he became, driving an engine at night and attending the Long Island Business College and the New York Law School by day. His wife prepared his 25 School by day. His wife prepared his lessons for him on slips of paper, which he studied at night with one eye while watching the track ahead with the other.

22 In this way he lost his job as enginer a month before he was graduated from the law school—June, 1897.

In October the bar examinations were held, and Hylan, having returned to the farm in the absence of a job, managed to travel on his union card to Syracuse for the bar examinations. Soon afterward he was practising law in Brookilyn, where he lives and sits as County Judge. Judge Hylan in 1908 led a fight for another Brookiny Magistrate, and received the appointment himself. In 1914 he was appointed a 'County Judge by Gov. Glynn, and in the fall of that year he was elected to the position by a plurality of 27,000, running 7,000 ahead plurality of 27,000, running 7,000 ahead of his ticket.

Saks' Winter Overcoats for Men

Have all those elegancies of finish embodied in the highest-priced merchant-tailored garments, and exhibit an ease and grace of line found only in overcoats of Saks creating.

At $23 to $70

We have assembled a collection of overcoats wherein will be found more models, more patterns and more original colorings than either Saks or any other house ever presented to the men of Manhattan. Woolens are scarce—and high—but our big assortments show no big increase in price. We have no corner on the woolen market, but by selling direct to you minus middlemen's profits we are able to give you more in both tailoring and woolens than is possible in overcoats that are burdened with the rakeoff of a middleman.

> If you are not quite decided as to what style of overcoat you want, just take a peep at these:
